

ECO TERRENO
WINES & VINEYARDS

JENNIFER SUNIA
HR BUSINESS PARTNER

As a lifelong Sonoma resident, Jennifer Sunia has always felt the lure of wine and reluctantly placed it on pause to raise three lovely children. The pause, however, was short lived and wine became a family affair when her parents bought a 5-acre plot of land in 2000. Jennifer beams as she shares her grape growing experience at the Lobsinger Stone Barn Vineyard and the many happy memories built working alongside her parents, siblings, husband and kids.

In 2015, Jennifer chose to move into the industry full-time and helped launch Eco Terreno Wines. She was one of two team members in the early years and the need to wear many hats was an easy transition for a multi-tasking mother of three with a small family business and countless other responsibilities.

In some ways, Jennifer was meant to meet and work for Mark Lyon from the time she was born. In the year of her birth, Jennifer's parents moved into a bungalow home on E Napa Street in Sonoma, living there a short while until the family began to grow and they needed more space. Coincidentally, Jennifer has now spent as much time in that home as an adult as she did as an infant as Mark purchased it shortly before hiring her.

As our HR Business Partner, or as Rob likes to call her, the Everything Manager, Jennifer is always there with a smile and a big heart, helping everyone with anything they need. And, truth be told, those needs are vast and many, requiring her to be the keeper of many hats. Thank you, Jennifer, for being our "everything."
